

PRIVACY POLICY

Superstaff abides by the Privacy act 1993. This means that the information provided to us will be stored and used by Superstaff in a secure and confidential manner, and that personal information will not be shared with third parties (other than candidate information with Superstaff clients for the purpose of evaluating suitability for a job) without the individual's express permission. It also means that each individual has the right to look at and correct their personal information held by Superstaff.